

The background of the image is a night scene of a Thai restaurant. In the foreground, many people are seated at tables, eating and talking. The tables are set with white cloths, glassware, and plates. In the background, there is a view of the Bangkok skyline across a body of water. The Wat Arun temple is prominently visible on the left side of the skyline. The sky is dark with some clouds, and the city lights are reflecting on the water. String lights are hanging from the ceiling of the restaurant, adding to the warm atmosphere.

TUK TUK RIDE

A large group of people, mostly men, are seated at round tables covered with white tablecloths in a well-lit conference room. They are engaged in a meeting or conference, with some looking towards the front and others looking down at their phones or papers. The room has large windows on the right side, and the atmosphere appears professional and focused.
